

ALLISON & GEORGE EPISODE
“A TRIP TO MOM’S”

ALLISON

I cannot believe that finally I get to go off to my mom’s without you, George. Yahoo, yahoo! And besides she warned me about bringing you again. You know you got her dander up when you did not agree with what she was saying.

GEORGE

I will never agree with her when she tells me I should have not married you.

ALLISON

Well, she tells me that about you also.

GEORGE

She ought to know that I am a good catch.

ALLISON

Yea, she said that you were a good catch alright.

GEORGE

Really?

ALLISON

Yea, she said if somebody has to catch you, don’t let it be me, and get out of the way and run fast.

GEORGE

After all I do for her, gee! I cannot believe her.

ALLISON

Well, dear, you better believe it for I have no reason to tell you any different.

GEORGE

Hey, it's okay. And the way I see it well, no problem, she may be over 4 hours away and you have to cross the Mohave Desert. Just remember what all I have taught you.

ALLISON

Yea, you instructed me to tell them that I have a mean, bad husband at home that will whip them up to pieces if they mess one hair on my head up.

GEORGE

You forgot one thing.

ALLISON

Oh, I remember, tell them my mom is even meaner than my husband.

GEORGE

No, Allison, tell them that I will trade in your mom for you.

ALLISON

But my dad cannot even stand her.

GEORGE

Yea, so we don't have to feel bad then when we do the exchange.

(Knock-knock on the door)

ALLISON

Get the door, George.

GEORGE

You got it, Allison. Good Morning, Billy. What brings you here so early?

BILLY

That's easy to answer. I could hear you guys from downstairs. It sounded like you were offering someone to take your wife for a ransom.

GEORGE

No, you got it all wrong. If Allison gets kidnapped we would offer the kidnappers her mother.

BILLY

What makes you think that she is going to get kidnapped?

GEORGE

Now what do you think, Billy? Any person dumb enough to drive themselves alone in the desert takes that chance of being kidnapped. And Allison wants to leave me home unattended and no one cooking my dinner or washing my clothes; just me all alone.

(Allison is listening through the door)

GEORGE

Well, number 1, she is a beautiful, or I should say she once was a beautiful doll. She used to be a good cook, but now she burns the bacon that I bring home, and she--

ALLISON

(Walks into the room)

Now that is enough, George-e-boy. I don't want to hear any more of these lies.

GEORGE

But I was just getting to the good part.

BILLY

I'm waiting!

ALLISON

Me too.

George

Well, if anyone dares to try to kidnap you why, I would--

ALLISON

You would what, George?

GEORGE

Mother-in-law, mother-in-law.

ALLISON

Shame on you!

GEORGE

Now did I say anything? I just love you to death, Allison.

ALLISON

You mean, death do us part. That is what will happen if I get kidnapped. For your information, George, I just don't think that I will go to my mother's this year. You and your bully friend Billy, have made me very nervous about traveling alone in the desert.

BILLY

Oh, Allison, I would never say anything to bully you. I admire how you can put up with George all the time with his crazy ideas.

GEORGE

Hey, wait a minute, Billy, whose side are you on? And what crazy ideas?

BILLY

Do you really want me to spill the beans?

ALLISON

Speak up now or forever hold your peace, Billy-boy.

GEORGE

See what you have started, Billy? Why?

BILLY

I see that it is time for me to go. You have enough to handle with your wife going to get kidnapped. I am out of here.

ALLISON

So you have a plan to get rid of me? I just cannot believe that after 10 years you want me gone.

GEORGE

Listen to me, my sweetheart, I never wanted you to go to your mother's without me. Why, I just need you here to help protect me.

ALLISON

Protect you from what? That little mouse that keeps invading our home? Or from the big bad landlord that hates us?

GEORGE

Now, don't get so annoyed with me. Why you are breaking my heart?

ALLISON

Aha, the song is called "Oh, Don't Go Breaking My Heart." We played that at our wedding. And just to think you remember that far back.

GEORGE

My dear sweetheart, Allison, how could I forget? I was dancing with your mom. Every time the song said "breaking" she would step on my toes.

ALLISON

Yea, my dear, you sure went through a lot with my mother. She really does love you, don't you see that? After all these years she is not crying the blues any more.

GEORGE

I noticed that. The last time she came here, well, she acted differently towards me.

ALLISON

How was that, my dear?

GEORGE

Well, she never said a word to me, she never looked at me, and when she was leaving she gave me a big smile.

ALLISON

See, what did I tell you on our wedding night? She would grow to love you, just like I love you, my dear.

GEORGE

That explains everything.

ALLISON

What's that, George?

GEORGE

Well, she left me this note on our wedding night and told me not to open it until we have been married 10 years.

ALLISON

Well, did you open it yet?

GEORGE

Yes, I did.

ALLISON

Well, what did it say?

GEORGE

Here let me read it to you. Dear George, a maybe son-in-law, Fear not. I never thought that you would make it this long, but since you did I must give you credit. I am not done with you yet. One day Allison will leave to come see me without you and you will never see her again. I promise you that. Allison, I cannot read any more of this twisted letter.

ALLISON

Now I get it, you were afraid that she would have me kidnapped. Oh, George, I love you so much. (They put their arms around each other with George facing the audience and winks and says...)

GEORGE

If she only knew that I wrote this letter.
(He rolls it in a ball and throws
it towards the audience.)
